

Dear Hiring Managers:

I am writing to express my interest in the Assistant Editor position that was advertised on LinkedIn. I believe my education, skills, and personality will bring value to your organization.

I have a track record of assisting with complex and creative tasks. For instance during my internship at Brandt-Roberts Galleries, I wrote press releases, created social media posts, and generated outreach letters to media outlets, gallery clients, and associate artists. I also helped my supervisor research and evaluate anonymous artworks and import them from abroad to the US.

I have two years of experience with professional writing in English and Mandarin. During my time with College Daily, an international media company, I developed my personal channel with an increasing readership. I brought in 100,000 unique views with one long-form article. During my experience as a writer at The Lantern, I developed excellent written and verbal communication skills and I identify myself as a skilled writer with good command of the AP style. This experience allowed me to develop multimedia skills such as video editing, photoshop, and the ability to use most Adobe products.

I've developed a resilience and can-do mindset that will add to your positive team culture. I believe my attached resume provides a complete account of my qualifications. I would love to further discuss this internship opportunity with you in-person or on the phone.

I appreciate your consideration,
